SCHOOL REPORT.

We submit for your approval the following report of the condition of our schools.

It is instructive to bear in mind the gain that is often made by the addition of a new means of education or the alteration of an old one. Recent examples in the case of elementary school education are: supplementary text books, libraries, pictures, sand tables, blocks, tools, raffia work, and the like. The object of these innovations is to economize as well as improve education. If the child in the first grade is kept busy during the first year of school life, he is forming habits which will go with him thru the succeeding grades. It becomes habitual with the active child to follow the example of the teacher whom he loves and respects, therefore every thing depends on how the teacher teaches, and how the child receives. There are two essential elements in elementary instruction; one is to so educate as to make the child eager to devote his energy to making his wants better, and the other is to use the schools to help the child to get what he wants when he becomes the future citizen of our land after being so educated as to place his ideals high.

The purpose of making the work interesting by artificial means is not for the purpose of amusing the child, as many suppose, but to instill into the child that interest which becomes a part of the child's nature. I am sure it is not difficult for parents to notice at once when the child is eager to attend school out of love for the work which is being given to the pupil by the interested, trained teacher. We have in the schools of Falmouth teachers who are teaching because they love the work and the results are such as to call forth words of commendation from all concerned. On the other hand we have those who do not love the work and their teaching is unsatisfactory.

TEACHERS.

We have made but few changes in the teaching force the past year. At the commencement of the fall term, which is the beginning of the school year, we elected the list of teachers as given in the tabular report. The same list was retained for the winter term with the exception of the assistant teachers in Nos. 2 and 3. Soon after the opening of the winter term the main room in No. 3 was divided and we now have a primary and a grammar school in separate rooms. Bertha N. Richardson of North Monmouth was employed for the primary grades and the work accomplished is beyond our expectations.

In our rural schools the teacher is still the one who is all in all. While the teacher may not occupy quite as important a position in the community as formerly, yet in the school room her position is one of even more responsibility than it was twenty years ago.

As we have suggested in our past reports, it is absolutely necessary that we increase our wage schedule in order to retain the services of our best teachers. We have teachers in Falmouth that should be retained at any price within reason. We have advised a maximum wage schedule of $12. We find in many of our larger towns in both Maine and Massachusetts that this is the wage limit for all except principals. We have two general bases for the grading of teachers for all purposes, both of which are valid, and are treated as elements in making our decisions. One is the teacher's personality and general influence over the pupils in stimulating endeavor, arousing interest and affecting character. The other is what we commonly call results, meaning the more definite evidences of good teaching, such as the amount of learning possessed by a pupil after a reasonable period of instruction; there are finer requirements which might be mentioned but we must always take into consideration that teachers are human.

ATTENDANCE.

We wish to call the attention of the citizens of the town to the percentage of attendance during the spring and fall terms; as the winter term is not quite complete we have not included it. We feel that this is something to be proud of. Our percentage of attendance is 89. From our State Superintendent's report of 1913 we find the city of South Portland, with a percentage of attendance of 91, is the only city or town above our percentage. This large increase is owing to the great interest among the pupils of our smaller schools. We wish the larger schools might manifest the same interest. This is not the result of compulsory education, for our truant officers have had but three cases of truancy for the year.

TEXT BOOKS AND SUPPLIES.

Our schools are now supplied with good text books. It is always necessary to furnish some new text books as the pupils advance from grade to grade, and to replace those that are badly worn or soiled. This is the case with the primers and first readers, as the books used by the little people are of short duration. We believe it is policy, also, to furnish teachers with books from which they can get the best results in the shortest period of time.

REPAIRS AND IMPROVEMENTS.

We have made the repairs that were absolutely necessary, and followed out the suggestions made in our last report by having the No. 9 school building painted as recommended and a new ceiling at No. 1. A new wood room has been built at No. 10 schoolhouse and arranged so that the wood can be reached without going out of the building. This is a great convenience as a year's supply can now be placed under cover. We hope two or more such buildings may be constructed the coming year' so that a full year's supply of fuel can be housed, where only about half the required amount can be at the present time. Articles in the warrant will call your attention to the need of a new schoolhouse in No. 2. We hope that conditions which will be duly explained will convince the tax-payers of our town that the people in this section require a better school building located upon a different site.

GRADUATION AND EXHIBITION DAY.

The third school exhibition was held at Falmouth Corner schoolhouse Tuesday and Wednesday, May 5 and 6, and at West Falmouth May 7th. The Teacher's meeting, held the forenoon of the 6th, and the interesting address by Dr. Fowler were the two helpful periods of the exhibit. A second teacher's meeting during the year was held at the Falmouth Corner schoolhouse Friday afternoon Nov. 13. All the teachers were present.

The graduation exercises were held at the First Parish Church, Thursday evening, June 11, 1914. A class of nine passed the examination. Seven entered high school.

The following is the program.
